Course Description

Join Fernando Greenfingers, an eccentric botanist with an unparalleled love for all things leafy, in "The Art of Lush Leaf Lamentation". Set amidst the picturesque greenery of Canterbury, this class invites adults to delve into the whimsical world of leaves, not just as nature's wonders but also as emotional companions. Over the course of this unique class, participants will learn to identify and cultivate native British plants, understanding their emotional significance and how they can be a source of joy and reflection. Students will engage with nature-based crafting techniques, transforming ordinary leaves into extraordinary art pieces. With Fernando's guidance, each participant will create personalized leaf art that reflects their inner muse, learning how different shapes, colors, and textures can evoke varied feelings and memories. This playful yet educational experience will equip students with practical botany skills and inspire a newfound appreciation for the silent, leafy friends that surround them. As students sketch, cut, and paint, they'll discover new ways to incorporate plant-based joy into their daily lives, making this class not only a skill-building adventure but a soul-nourishing journey into the heart of nature itself.
