Course Description

Step into the ethereal world of 'Cloud Sculpting for the Soul,' a delightful mindfulness class set against the stunning backdrop of the Scottish Highlands. Under the whimsical guidance of Professor Nimbus Drizzle, participants will embark on a journey of introspection and imagination, with only the sky as their canvas. The class begins with a gentle trek to one of the Highlands' most scenic spots, where students will spread out their personalized cloud gazing mats. Participants will use their sky-ward binoculars to observe and identify various cloud formations, learning to appreciate the transient beauty of these aerial wonders. Professor Drizzle will lead a session on creative visualization, encouraging students to let their minds wander and imagine fantastical stories inspired by the shapes they see. This is followed by a guided cloud meditation, using cloud-shaped pillows for comfort and warm blankets to stay cozy. Throughout the class, students will jot down their reflections in a specially provided journal, fostering a deeper connection with nature and their own creativity. By the end of this whimsical session, participants will have developed an enhanced ability to find peace and joy in the everyday sky—a skill that will nourish their souls long after they've left the Highlands.
