Course Description

Step into a world of chivalry, jesters, and feasts with 'Goblet of Giggles: Medieval Merriment Crafting'. Led by the jovial and ever-so-charming Sir Lancelot Laughalot, this class invites you to explore the joys of medieval revelry through the art of goblet crafting. In the heart of picturesque Stratford-upon-Avon, set amid echoes of the past, you will learn to design and create your own medieval goblet using traditional pewter casting and embossing techniques. Participants will engage in a tactile journey, shaping pewter sheets into elegant drinking vessels, embellished with your own unique design. As you craft, Sir Lancelot will spin tales of medieval feasts and revelry, teaching you the art of storytelling as you prepare to regale your friends with tales to match your splendid goblet. The class goes beyond mere crafting, delving into the art of medieval calligraphy. Under the whimsical guidance of our instructor, you'll learn to inscribe your goblet with your name or a favorite medieval phrase, creating a keepsake worthy of any noble feast. This experiential class not only equips you with metalworking and calligraphy skills but also reconnects you with the medieval spirit of joy and community, ensuring that each goblet is not just a craft, but a vessel filled with laughter and stories waiting to be shared.
