Course Description

Join Professor Ivy Fernsnap in the historic city of Oxford for a whimsical exploration into the ancient art of nature-based writing. 'Leafy Quill and Ink Potion Mastery' invites adults to delve into the enchanting world of crafting quills from feathers and twigs found in serene English gardens. You'll learn how to create vibrant inks using the petals, berries, and roots of local plants, transforming them into magical potions for your literary endeavors. In this playful yet educational session, participants will master the craft of leaf inscription, using specially prepared parchment leaves to etch poems and stories that resonate with the whispers of nature. As you learn these skills, Professor Fernsnap will guide you through fascinating tales of how plant-based writing was used by ancient scribes and poets to document history and folklore. With a flowery apron and a botanist's toolkit at your side, you will leave with the ability to express yourself creatively, capturing the essence of nature in every stroke of your handmade quill. Whether you're a passionate writer, a lover of nature, or simply seeking to learn something delightfully unique, this class promises an unforgettable experience where history, art, and the natural world intertwine beautifully. Prepare to enchant your friends with your newfound knowledge and exquisite creations!
