Course Description

Dive into the delightful world of Edwardian toys with Master Toymaker Tinker Tall in this charming class that combines history, craftsmanship, and whimsy. Students will step back in time to explore the playful elegance of Edwardian toy-making, learning the secrets behind beloved vintage creations such as wooden puppets, marionettes, and spinning tops. Master Tinker Tall will guide participants through the intricate process of designing and crafting their own whimsical toys using authentic techniques passed down through generations. The class begins with an enlightening session on the historical significance of Edwardian toys, revealing their role in societal joy and childhood development during the early 20th century. Students will then roll up their sleeves to engage in practical crafting, starting with basic wood carving and painting. Using provided materials such as wooden blocks, paints, and fabric, participants will create their own unique toys, imbued with personal flair and creative expression. Alongside learning the delicate art of toy customization, students will gain insights into sustainable crafting practices, utilizing eco-friendly materials and techniques that ensure their creations are both charming and responsible. By the end of the class, participants will have honed their fine motor skills and developed an understanding of how toys can tell stories and evoke joy, leaving with their very own Edwardian masterpiece to cherish or gift to a loved one. Join us in Exeter for this nostalgic and soul-nourishing journey into the world of whimsical toy-making.
