Led by the illustrious Maestro Felix Furthoven, whose expertise in both feline behavior and musical conducting is unmatched, this class invites adults to discover the unique joy of orchestrating a choir of cats. Located in the serene and inspiring Peak District, participants will learn how to conduct a symphony using the natural vocal abilities of our feline friends. The course begins with an introduction to basic conducting techniques — while normal conductors might lead violas or sopranos, you'll learn to lead meows, purrs, and chirps. Maestro Furthoven will guide you through crafting a harmonious arrangement using rhythm and tempo, all while keeping your furry performers engaged and content. With a silken cat-themed conductor's cape draped around your shoulders, you'll master the art of using your body language to express musical nuances, communicating in a way that resonates with your feline counterparts. Practical sessions with our trained cat choir will help you develop skills in synchronization and performance artistry. By the end of the class, you'll not only have conducted your own whisker symphony but also gained invaluable skills in creativity, leadership, and cross-species interaction, all while having a purr-fectly delightful time!
